Inverness is beautifully situated near the mouth of the River Ness. To-day a well-built modern town, Inverness is a very ancient burgh, and from the time of its first charter as a royal burgh (1165) to the Battle of Culloden (1746) it was connected with most of the leading events in Scottish history. The view is taken from the Islands, and shows St. Andrew's Cathedral on the left hand, and opposite, the Castle.
